

FIND LOCAL FOOD AND DRINK

More people are now choosing local food as often as possible when shopping or eating out. As well as freshness and flavour, knowing how our food is produced becomes much easier when we can buy directly from the producer or there is a short supply chain. Our local producers and independent retailers have been wonderfully adaptable in ensuring good food supplies during recent challenging conditions. With ongoing support from shoppers and diners, this is enabling local supply chains to strengthen and become more resilient, with multiple benefits. Many producers' websites now have more detail about the sustainability ethos, which is good to see.
