The fires aren't random. They're a warning.

Hotter, drier conditions make extreme fires more likely.

The good news? We already know many of the actions that reduce climate pollution and build stronger communities.

EAT GREEN
More plant-based meals.
Less food waste.
TRAVEL FRESH
Choose trains, Ferries or buses where possible.
Fly less. Make each flight count.
MAKE STUFF LAST Repair.
Reuse.
Buy fewer, better things.
CHANGE THE SYSTEM
Vote.
Talk about climate.
Support policies that make low-carbon choices easier.
GROW COMMUNITY
Check on neighbours.
Support local food, energy and resilience projects.
STAY GROUNDED
Spend time in nature.
Stay connected.
Take action together.

Every action matters.

No single choice stops a wildfire.
Millions of people making these choices reduce emissions, strengthen communities and lower future climate risks.
